

I have a current loan, I wish to refinance, but I don't want my current lender to know. Is that possible?

Written by Administrator

Wednesday, 25 February 2009 23:35 -

Yes. MoneyPath will ask you who your current lender is and then give you the option to not use this lender for your refinance. If you do not see your current lender in the drop down list, then that lender must not be registered with MoneyPath so it is impossible for MoneyPath to match you with them.